PK PHOTO KNOW-HOW has developed a special Firewire Cable Extension designed for Hasselblad H3DII. This extension prevents the plugged digital back from falling towards the ground when accidentally hit or tugged.

The Firewire Cable Extension can be temporarily clipped on the Hasselblad camera body using the two screw threads of the databus connector located on the left body's side.

The Firewire Cable Extension will disconnect from the main firewire cable if it experiences undue strain, thus preventing the digital back from damage.

SAFE-LOCK can also be used with systems Sinar.

The firewire extension cable is also produced in Sinar Artec version for the entire P-series and for the entire series F.
